Task

Your objective is to build a small project named MovieWorld.
The application is a social sharing platform where users can share their favorite movies of all time.

Each movie has a title and a small description as well as a date that corresponds to the date it was added to the database.

In addition it holds a reference to the user that submitted it.

Users can also express their opinion about a movie by liking or hating each one.

When an unauthorized user visits the application, he see the list of movies that have been added to the database, as well as links for log in/ sign up.
Each movie contains the following information:

● Title

● Description

● Name of the user

● Date of publication

● Number of likes

● Number of hates

The name of the user is a link that, when clicked, filters the movies down to the items that have been shared by this specific user.

The list can also be sorted by the number of likes, number of hates or the publication date.
In addition, authorized users are able to add their own movies and express their opinion for other movies by either liking or hating a movie.

Voting is performed by clicking on the respective links that are displayed for each movie.

Requirements

You will need to provide a basic working prototype of the application.

The minimum requirements are:

* Users should be able to log into their account or sign up for a new one .

* Users should be able to add movies by completing a form. Movies should be saved and reference the user that submitted them.

* Users should be able to express their opinion for any movie by either liking/hating it. Users can vote only once for each movie and can change their vote at any time by switching to the opposite vote or by retracting their vote .

* Users should not be able to vote for the movies they have submitted.

* Users should be able to view the list of movies and sort them by number of likes, number of hates or date added.
